ACE Westchester Launches Products for Hazmat Transportation Risks

ACE Westchester's Environmental Division is introducing its newest product line, providing coverage and services for hazardous material (hazmat) and hazardous waste transporters.

Underwriting will be centralized in ACE Westchester's Philadelphia offices under the direction of Roger Murphy, product line manager, an established veteran in the hazmat transportation market. For the past seven years, Murphy has worked directly in this market and is familiar with the industry and the special coverage and services required.

"This is a tremendous opportunity for ACE Westchester to round out its environmental product offering," said Murphy. "This is a highly regulated and safety conscious class of business that has a long-standing record of operating in a manner that exceeds many of the already stringent mandated transportation safety standards."

Barbara Deas, Senior Vice President, ACE Westchester, added, "Effective June 1st, the hazmat transportation industry will have ability to choose a recognized A+ rated carrier with an established track record in the environmental market. As the leading provider of specialty insurance products, we have the expertise and infrastructure to provide the capacity and services to meet the time-sensitive requirements of this industry."
